12/4/01	R01-08-027	Order Instituting Rulemaking on the Commission's Proposed Policies and Programs Governing Low-Income Assistance Programs.

Summary: On December 3, 2001, Michael Hoover, Director of Regulatory Affairs for Southern California Edison Company (Edison), initiated a telephone discussion with Linda Serizawa, advisor to Cmmr. Wood. Referring to a draft interim opinion, Hoover stated that Edison did not have funding for the activities the draft interim opinion proposed Edison should undertake, due to the fact that Edison is an all-electric utility and that Edison has never had the funding, personnel, and equipment to undertake the combustion appliance safety testing discussed in the draft opinion. Hoover stated that at a minimum, the Commission should allow Edison to use LIEE funds to pay for these activities.

Summary: On December 4, 2001, Michael Peters of BOC Gases, member of the California Industrial Users (CIU), had a telephone communication with David Gamson, advisor to Cmmr. Brown. Also participating in the telephone conversation were James Rouse of Praxair, Inc., member of the CIU, and Dan Carroll, counsel to the CIU. Carroll noted that direct access contracts filed by anyone other than utilities are not protected by Public Utilities Code Section 583. Carroll also explained that since CIU is an intervenor group, CIU is the party, and not its members. Referring to the direct access contracts, Rouse indicated that there could be antitrust concerns if such contracts made their way into the public domain. Peter pointed out that companies have fiduciary responsibilities to their shareholders to take advantage of tools such as direct access. Peters stated that to make any change to the ability to use direct access on anything other than a going forward basis would frustrate the economic expectations of customers. Rouse and Peters suggested that there were less intrusive ways to gather information to consider in addressing direct access issues. Peters encouraged the Commission to support evidentiary hearings on issues related to exit fees, should exit fees be considered necessary. Carroll explained that the Commission was not granted authority to suspend direct access to prevent cost shifting and cannot use that as a reason to support retroactive suspension.

Summary: On December 5, 2001, Dan Carroll, counsel to the California Industrial Users (CIU), had a telephone communication with David Gamson, advisor to Cmmr. Brown. Carroll discussed the Commission's authority to retroactively suspend direct access based upon prevention of cost shifting.

Summary: On December 5, 2001, Michael Peters of BOC Gases, member of the California Industrial Users (CIU), had a telephone communication with Lynne McGhee, advisor to Cmmr. Duque. Also participating in the telephone conversation were Rick Noger of Praxair, Inc., member of the CIU, and Dan Carroll, counsel to the CIU. Carroll addressed reasons why the Commission might feel a need to examine direct access contracts. Carroll noted that much less intrusive means could be used to obtain those specific portions of contracts which the Commission felt a need to review. Peters indicated that there could be antitrust concerns if such contracts made their way into the public domain. Peters pointed out that companies have fiduciary responsibilities to their shareholders to take advantage of tools such as direct access. Peters stated that to make any change to the ability to use direct access on anything other than a going forward basis would frustrate the economic expectations of customers. Peters and Noger expressed the need for businesses to protect their rights. Noger added that companies must also keep their customers' interests in mind. Peters further pointed out that if direct access is suspended retroactively, implementation of that suspension will be an issue. Carroll explained that the Commission was not granted authority to suspend direct access to prevent cost shifting and cannot use that as a reason to support retroactive suspension.

Also present was Sandra McCubbin, a consultant to the Authority. Written materials (attached to the notice) were used. Thorpe and McCubbin stated that environmental review of the Blue Line project was thorough, that California Environmental Quality Act's requirements had been followed and satisfied, and that no judicial challenges had been filed to the environmental process. Referring to the Rail Crossing Engineering Section's (RCES) opposition to the motion for interim authority, Thorpe and McCubbin stated that out of the approximately 60 crossings covered by the applications, RCES posed an objection to only one crossing.
